ONE HUNDRED CARTOONS BY CESARE

BRILLIANT and powerful interpretations of our times by the artist whose change from the New York Sun to the New York Evening Post gave the latter newspaper opportunity to say that when for the first time in its history it decided to add a cartoonist to its regular staff, it had obtained the services of the ablest cartoonist in America.

Whether dealing with politics or war, social subjects, humorous situations, portraits, Cesare is always an artist; he is known as such throughout this country, while his work is reprinted in European periodicals more often than that of any other American cartoonist.

His drawings have been characterized as expressing "the point of view that seeks not merely pleasantness or decorativeness or the suggestion of a sympathetic anecdote, but rather the sincere representation of life as seen by men of character, humor and insight."

His work satisfies to the utmost the definition of the difference — so often not clearly understood — between the cartoon and the caricature: the caricature merely makes you laugh, the cartoon makes you think.

THE BEST SHORT STORIES OF 1915

AND THE

YEARBOOK OF THE AMERICAN SHORT STORY

Edward J. O'Brien, Editor

"From every point of view — from that of the actual probabilities of reading-enjoyment to be derived from it by all sorts of readers; from that of the vivid and varied, but always valid, concernment with life that it maintains; from that of technical literary interest in American letters, and from that of sheer esthetic response to artistic quality — THE BEST SHORT STORIES OF 1915 AND THE YEARBOOK OF THE AMERICAN SHORT STORY, edited by Edward J. O'Brien, warrants an emphatic and unconditional recommendation to all."— Life.

"Of the twenty-two hundred most promising short stories by American writers, which were published in 1915, Edward J. O'Brien has selected the twenty 'best'— a collection of such wide range and diverse style as to represent almost every type of deservedly popular magazine story. It needs no vote to determine the worth of the collection as a whole — good tales, varied, well-told, new, are sure of popular approval." —The Independent.

"These twenty stories are beyond question representative, and admirably so, of the best work of the kind now being published. The volume thus is of genuine value to all who are sincerely interested in contemporary letters and life. For the general reader it has the further merit of being one of the most readable collections of short stories published in a long while."—The Bellman.

ONE HUNDRED CARTOONS BY CESARE

Brilliant and powerful interpretations of our times, by the man whose recent change from the New York Sun to the New York Evening Post gave the latter newspaper opportunity to congratulate itself on the good fortune which had enabled it, when for the first time in its history it decided to add a cartoonist to its regular staff, to obtain the services of the ablest cartoonist in America. Cesare is more than a cartoonist: he is an artist, and is known as such throughout this country, while his work is reprinted in European periodicals more often than that of any other American cartoonist. His greatness lies in his genius as an artist as well as in the strength of the ideas that his drawings express.

JAN VERMEER OF DELFT — By Philip L. Hale

"At last we have a book in English on Vermeer—an extremely valuable, popular account. We get from such a book as this not only an interpretation of a particular artist's art, but also of the art of painting in general. Writing about Vermeer in The Outlook some years ago, Mr. E. V. Lucas called him 'the rarest and most fastidious of masters.' After reading Mr. Hale's book one feels anew the justice of that statement." — Outlook.

"The most elaborate stylistic analysis ever applied to any artist."— Nation.

Large 8vo. With reproductions in color, in photogravure and in half-tone of all of Vermeer's known works, together with examples of the work of some of his contemporaries. Buckram, net, $10.00; three-quarter levant, net, $20.00.

LEONARDO DA VINCI — By Jens Thiis
